THE SIXTEENTH TUSKEGEE CONFERENCE.

From the Tuskegee Student. This has been the great week of the year at Principal Booker Washington's civilization works. Wednesday was the great day of the year for the Negro farmers of the vicinage; they thronged ino Tuskegee from all directions, and many of them—from long distances, to their annual conference. With them were brother farmers from other states.

There is no mystery about their love for these yearly gatherings and eagerness to be present at them. The conferences have changed life—the whole face of the world and look of the future—for hundreds on hundreds of the Negro farmers. Men who, when they first saw Tuskegee, didn't own an acre and lived in one-room cabins now own large, profit-yielding farms, have comfortable home, are putting money in the bank and growing in self-respect and self-reliance from one year to another. The conference is their conference—of, for, and by them, to quote again Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg speech—and they enjoy every minute of it. No meeting could be freer or more informal; farmer after farmer gets up, tells what he has done on his farm and is planning to do, relates any special experiences that have come his way during the year, and reports on the general condition of things in his neighborhood. The wives of the farmers are heard from—they tell about their kitchen gardens, poultry yards, and so on. Principal Washington, as father of the conference, is privileged of course. Without his opening address the conference would not be itself. Except in exceptional cases, the other school principals, the teachers, all the visitors who do not farm for a living, just look on and listen.

In this year's opening address Principal Washington preached the gospel of honesty, industry, thrift, cleanliness and all-around goodness, with his accustomed vigor. Here's one of the things he said:

"Any black man who is worth his salt can build a decent house—can raise a respectable family—can secure all of the work that he wishes—can educate his children—can have freedom of religious worship—can secure and maintain the respect and confidence of his neighbors, of both races. But we must not be satisfied with what we have achieved in the past. We must continue to go forward."

Here's another: "More and more, as a race of people, we must learn to draw the line between the moral and the immoral; between the good and the bad; and we must set the standard of life among our own people high, and let them understand that we feel ourselves ashamed to associate with idlers and criminals. We must use our influence wherever possible to get rid of the large idle class that hang about the street corners and dens of misery in our large cities."

Every year the Negro farmers, at the close of their Conference, adopt and set forth a series of "declarations," very practical these always are, and it's a very practical man who writes them. The fifth "declaration" this year runs thus:

es between the races, has been one of anxiety to many of us, we are cheered and comforted by the evidences that we frequently see around us that our friends among the white people, co-operating with the leaders among our people, are determined more in the future than in the past to prevent such outbursts. In order to co-operate with the forces of law and order in our several communities, we urge upon our leaders and teachers that they earnestly seek in every way to reduce the number of idlers and vagrants of our race, especially in the cities."

Yesterday, when the farmers had dispersed to their farms, the school principals, teachers and visitors specially interested in school work, gathered in Frederick Douglass Memorial Hall for their yearly Tuskegee conference. The report of what they did there has not yet come to hand, but it seems quite certain that a suggestion just made—and very earnestly urged—by ex-Governor Jelks of Alabama must have engaged their attention. Principal Washington declared war long ago against the itinerant, immoral Negro teachers. The ex-Governor tells the instructed young white men of the South that the time has come when, in the interest of their own race, they must put prejudice behind them and volunteer to teach the Negro children in the public schools.—Hartford Courant.

PROGRESS OF AFRO-AMERICANS IN LABORING CIRCLES.

The Annual Report of the International Laborers' Union, with Headquarters in Dayton, Ohio, but with subordinate lodges in all the principal cities and towns of the country, is most interesting to the members of our race.

It shows that this I. L. U. Grand Lodge was formed five years ago at a delegate convention in Chicago, Ill., mainly because of the race and craft discrimination of the labor unions of white mechanics. During the past five years this I. L. U. Grand Lodge has maintained an independent stand, with an International Charter from the government courts, which has protected the Grand Lodge at all times.

They have fought the old established unions which practiced wrongs upon our race, and as a result this I. L. U. order has grown strong and prospered. They have secured better conditions for more than 20,000 of our race, in some cases getting less hours of toil, others being increased wages, and in several instances securing both decreased hours and higher wages.

More than one million dollars has been received in increased wages for the members of this order since its formation. As this money comes out of the pockets of the great corporations and trusts and big capitalists, it will be readily seen what an advantage it is to give this money to our people and thus put it in circulation.

This Laboring Order also takes care of its sick and distressed and pays $100 to bury each deceased member.

Up to date they have started 403 lodges, and admitted over 34,000 members, and are increasing in strength every month and the Grand Lodge is in excellent financial condition.

There is no other society of this nature in existence, and from the way it is growing and gaining strength, it seems as though the I. L. U. Grand Lodge of Dayton, Ohio, will soon be one of the strongest laboring organizations in this country, and the only one which grants absolute protection and benefits to our race without discrimination.

JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION NOTES

An increased force of workmen has been brought into service on the $40,000 building, so as to insure its readiness next month. Bolling & Everett, the contractors, are reliable business men, and will "deliver the goods."

Requests for concessions are constantly coming in, and contracts will be entered into at an early date.

The press of the country is practically a unit for the exhibit, and public sentiment fully justifies the policy of placing our exhibits in a separate building—not to "Jim crow" the race, but to make sure that we get the credit due for our skill and artistic genius.

Mr. R. W. Thompson, special agent, detailed from the War Department, at Jeffersonville, Ind., has reached the city.

Mr. T. J. Calloway, chairman of the Executive Committee, is off on a Southern tour in the interest of the exhibit, his itinerary to include Nashville, Atlanta, Richmond and possibly other principal points.

The field agents are J. M. May, A. L. MacBeth, C. H. Johnson, F. D. Lee, W. E. Hope, C. H. Williamson, D. N. E. Campbell, W. W. Fisher, J. H. Porter and Robert Kelser. They are all hard at work in their districts and are sending in very encouraging reports.

The group of models, showing in tableau form the development of the Negro in the arts of civilization from the landing at Jamestown to the present day, will be one of the most attractive and significant features of the exhibit. Miss Meta Vaux Warrick, the accomplished Philadelphia sculptor, has taken the matter in hand, and her reputation as an artist assures us of a piece of high-grade work. This exhibit will be over two hundred feet long, and will be illuminated by electric lights, setting it off to marked advantage.

Set this down in large letters: The Negro Exhibit is to be and it is to be a success.

The Advance (Providence, R. I.) and The Freeman (Indianapolis) are out in strong editorial endorsements of the exhibit. New England and the Middle West are vying with each other in support of the race's great enterprise.

The Negro Exhibit will occupy six acres of the Exposition Grounds.

Note this: The Executive Committee will reimburse all freight payments on exhibits from schools, churches, and other charitable institutions, provided the freight receipts and bills of lading are carefully retained and forwarded. Others desiring exhibits sent at the expense of the management must apply beforehand and obtain consent before shipment. Shipping labels and tags follow on application. Address, No. 229 Treasury Building, Washington, D. C.

TUSKEGEE ALL RIGHT.

Roosevelt Expenses Only Criticism for Management of Tuskegee.

Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 10.—The fact that Booker T. Washington spent $5,000 for the entertainment for President Roosevelt last summer seems the only thing to criticize as a result of the examination of Tuskegee Institute made at the request of the legislature. This is a matter about which there seems really no complaint, save it is thought by some that the amount was rather high.

The report of the investigation is said to be much to the credit of Mr. Washington. He is said to have made good use of the money that has come into his hands and to have got the best results from its use. The bookkeeping is praised and the accounts reported to be simple and accurate. The report has not yet been made public.

The legislature has a bill in committee that seems hardly likely to get out, as the body has adjourned to the middle of July. It seeks to deprive the institute of the exemption from taxes that other schools enjoy. Some good men of the State, among them Capt. F. S. White, friend and legal adviser of the governor, have fought the bill long and hard, and it is thought that it has been laid away for good.

TRUE REFORMERS MEET.

There was a largely attended mass meeting under the auspices of section No. 2, U. O. T. R., of the District of Columbia, at Mount Airy Baptist Church on L street, between North Capitol and 1st streets, N. W., last Monday night. The following fountains were represented: House of David, Golden Rod, Ark, Galbraith, Rehoboth, Capitol City, Trinity, Morgan, Spring Green and Christian Endeavor. The committee of arrangements consisted of Miss V. R. Edwards, chairman; William Cooper and M. M. Peace.

After the preliminary devotional exercises Rev. Dr. Tyler, pastor of the church, preached to the reformers and the others who composed the audience. W. R. Griffin, chief of the Washington Division of the organization, delivered a brief address, in which he paid tribute to the aged members of the organization who, he said, had struggled, in the face of opposition and discouragements, to demonstrate to the business world the real power of union.

"They sacrificed themselves," he declared, "for what the 85,000 members now enjoy. Our white friends will think more of us when we prove to them our real worth to ourselves. Our future in this country depends upon our union of thought, union of brains, union of finance and union of actions. Instead of preparing a race for chain gangs, prisons, workhouses and penitentiaries, we will be preparing a race of useful and honest men and men, for industrious husbands and wives—citizens that will build happy homes and make glad any and every community."

ITEMS ON THE WING.

It would be a good plan for the Negro of the United States to follow the example of the Japanese in this country. The secret of his success lays in working under rates. There are plenty of whites right here in the District of Columbia who pay a white person double money for certain work and to top off will hire a colored person and require them to perform three times the amount. So far as the Negro leaving the United States for India or Africa is concerned, the moment he makes this step he goes to slow death, because it is an undeniable fact that these parts of the world are no places for the American Negro. The best thing for the colored brother to do is to stay right here and fight it out. The only serious mistake lays in the lack of unity with the race. We should support our colored newspapers more than we do, and business enterprises.

HIDDEN ISLES OF THE SEA.

Many a noble ship, richly laden with the proudest spoils of human industry and enterprise, and freighted with that which is dearer still—human life—has passed away with the morning sunlight glittering on its snowy canvas, passed away, never to arrive at its destination; passed away forever from the ken and knowledge of men as completely as if it had never been in existence. What has become of those vanished argosies? Whither have they gone?

When the seas give up their dead, and the old ocean lays bare its secrets, the human skeletons, the virgin gold, the priceless gems, the costly jewels, and the wrecks of those vanished ships will be found strewn amid the tremendous passes and deep defiles of those submerged mountain ranges which are the backbones of lost continents, upon those topmost peaks, projecting near the surface of the seas, these lost convoys have been dashed to destruction! The mariner's compass and the navigator's chart have not been able to protect commerce from the wreck and ruin of these submerged ridges, but the good ship "Columbia Club."
